

Salone de Mobile @ Milano Day 1.0

The trade fair is a large site in the north-west of Milano. Large halls (24!), partly on level zero, partly on +1. In this case +1 is around 8 meters high; what an immense construction this trade exhibition building.

This year we have the kitchens and bathrooms as additions, next year it's the lightings turn again. Beside this addition, the halls are flagged with styles: Classic, Design, Modern & Contemporary to name a few.

Based on previous fair experience we decided in Curacao not to plan any appointment. If you have one, your contact's previous meeting is always delayed or extended, so your scheduled meetings are trash.

There are so many brands to see and to tell about, I have to skip some of them in this time. Not that they are not interesting or good, but the overwhelming volume of new products and impressions will make me a writer or reporter instead of a blogger.

OK where to start? Of course the design halls #6 & #10. Tribu, originated in Belgium and one of our favorite outdoor brands, is our first goal. We did some products with them for Zest, Kura Hulanda & The Renaissance Hotel. We can always count on a warm welcome with them.
