

Moooi, just next door, had several new icons. A remake of the foot of the container table series, Marcel Wanders' "Barok" feeling pur sang. Studio's jobs contribution was the "Alt Deutsche Möbel" series: a cabinet, a clock and a books coffin, and a mid size version of the Paper Chandelier.

Marcel Wanders also designed the Big Ben, a 180cm round clock, and the Valentine, a nice and shiny suspension light in 2 sizes and 4 colors.

The final spot of the day was the Temporary Museum for New Design. A huge old plant with many big and small spaces or rooms. Every room has it's own identity, sound, feeling and atmosphere, created by its designer. Some with ancient basics some with state of the art techniques, brought into creativity.

If you want you easily can spend hours at this creative cell, and fall from one surprise into the next one.

A funny small LOT1038 item; we arrived at the Mosa room where we found one of our projects displayed at their touch screen LCD monitor; coincidence or did they know we where showing up? We will never know...
